WLC FALL CONFERENCES TO BE ALL VIRTUAL

CEDAR RAPIDS, Iowa - Knowing that we can not predict what regulations may be in place and/or the comfort level of attendees this fall, Women Lead Change has made the decision to host all fall conferences as completely virtual experiences, including the Dubuque Conference on Oct. 8, Central Iowa Conference on Oct. 28, and Quad Cities Conference on Nov. 10. All Access virtual tickets are open at <https://www.wlcglobal.org/events/>.

“Like all of us, Women Lead Change is navigating a new normal that fosters an environment of innovation. For us, that has meant bringing world-class leadership development for women in new ways,” Tiffany O’Donnell, CEO of Women Lead Change said. “Although the format has changed, what hasn’t changed is the caliber of speakers made accessible to our attendees. And through the power of technology, we will engage with these thought leaders and each other, in real-time, through our event app Whova.”

The Dubuque Conference on Oct. 8 includes keynote addresses from Stacey Hanke, Katrina Adams, and a workshop from Cy Wakeman. This half-day event is $125/person with virtual team packages available.
